EDMONTON GRIESBACH

It's been a busy summer here in Edmonton Griesbach. I've had the opportunity to talk to so many of the fantastic people that make our community home.

When talking to people at the doors I'm continually hearing frustration at the failures of the Liberal government. I hear about the Liberals' failure to support our natural resource sector, their ethical failures and their tax hikes on everyday Canadians.

I believe the Conservative caucus under our Leader Andrew Scheer has a better vision for Canada. A Canada where all Canadians can aspire to the reach their potential — the Canadian dream.

Hearing from you is always a priority. Please complete the enclosed survey and send it back to me in Ottawa. Postage isn't required.

With Conservative Leader Andrew Scheer and my caucus colleagues Matt Jeneroux and Mike Lake.

Also, if you need assistance with a federal department or agency including, citizenship and immigration questions and passport services, please contact my Edmonton office. We can provide you with resources and make enquiries on your behalf.

The Andrew Scheer Keynotes – My Vision For Canada

Unity in Diversity

“The prime minister says that diversity is our strength. But there is more to it than that. We have to focus on why Canada is diverse.

The reasons why waves and waves of immigrants from all corners of the world have come to Canada.

It is because we are free – free to worship and free to speak and free to believe.

It is because of our economic freedom that produces so much prosperity and opportunity.

It is because we are open – open to the persecuted and the oppressed and the broken.

It is because we are equal – equal in opportunity and equal before the law.

It is because we are all these things that we are diverse.

Diversity is the result of our strength. And our strength is and always has been our freedom.”

Excerpt from Andrew Scheer’s My Vision for Canada Speech: Unity in Diversity.

My Conservative MP colleagues and I had a great discussion with members of Edmonton’s African Canadian community about a range of issues.

It was very rewarding to talk to this group of girls at the IBM STEM4GIRLS summer camp as they explored robotics. Very smart group that are the leaders of tomorrow.

It was fantastic to officiate at the grand opening of the Jerry Forbes Centre for Community Spirit. This amazing facility provides office and warehouse space for scores of community groups.

I enjoyed giving greetings and talking to folks at the Millennium Pavilion Friends and Family BBQ.

Serving breakfast at the Aga Khan Canada Day Breakfast celebrating our great country.

Happy to attend the Change of Command Ceremony at Edmonton Garrison of the 3rd Canadian Division Support Group.

This is Not Your Dad's NDP

The federal NDP under their new leader Jagmeet Singh has taken a major turn leftwards. Far from being a party for working Canadians they're now openly working against their own interests.

The oil and gas industry directly and indirectly employs hundreds of thousands of Canadians with good paying jobs and provides billions of dollars in revenue for essential government services.

With this in mind you'd think that anyone who says they're supporting Canadian workers would be championing the oil and gas industry and the workers who depend on it?

Yet, Singh and his clique are far from supporting oil and gas workers and are actively trying to kill their jobs.

Singh and the federal NDP advocate for the abandonment of the Trans Mountain expansion project and they're opposing the new Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) plant in British Columbia.

Both of these multi-billion-dollar investments in Canada will create and maintain a significant number of good paying jobs here in Canada. Jobs that are a gateway to the middle class and a better life for workers and their families.

That's why the federal NDP's stance is so out of step from the interests of working Canadians.

Though don't just take my word for it, former NDP premier Rachel Notley has called Singh's approach to our oil and gas industry "ridiculously naïve."

Lamenting that he hasn't yet taken a "more mature approach to his leadership" and saying that forgetting "the needs of working people, or to throw working people under the bus, means that both economic growth and environmental protection are bound to fail."

That's why as your Member of Parliament, I support both championing our Canadian clean energy resources and using Canadian technology and investments to help build a cleaner brighter tomorrow for all Canadians.

Please sign my petition calling on Singh and the federal NDP to stop bashing the oil and gas industry here:

The Andrew Scheer Keynotes – My Vision For Canada Limited Government, Limitless Potential

“The prime minister likes to tell Canadians that they’ve never had it so good. But that is not what I hear in my travels.

Nearly 50% of all Canadians report being overwhelmed by their debts. They’ve stopped saving for retirement and are now just trying to keep their head above water.

People are barely getting by. And they’re definitely not getting ahead.

So I ask you: what good is a supposedly strong economy if hard-working people aren’t benefitting from it?

Canada must be a place where no ambition is too big, where no dream is out of reach, and where no government will stand in the way of people working hard to get ahead.”

Excerpt from Andrew Scheer’s My Vision for Canada Speech: Limited government, limitless potential.

It was great to officiate at the Canada Day celebrations at the Alberta Legislature, especially taking part in the new citizenship ceremony.

I had a lot of fun and good conversations while serving at the Athlone Community League pancake breakfast.

With my caucus colleague and friend Ziad Aboutaif at the K-Days parade.
